Cloudy, rather fine. The maximum temperature yesterday was 77.0 and the minimum 61.7, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 75.4 and 47.2.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROGRAM THIS YEAR TO BE DIFFERENT

Preliminary Meeting Held At Consul-General's Home

SERVICES IN A. M.

Two Associations To Furnish Necessary Fund.

Preliminary arrangements for this year's observance by the American community of Thanksgiving Day on November 30 were made at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General.

A decision of particular importance reached at the meeting, as it is a departure from all precedent in the matter of the observance of the holiday, is that the Thanksgiving Day service will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning. Heretofore it has been held late in the afternoon of the holiday. Where the service will take place this year is a question yet to be determined. A special committee composed of Mr. J. Harold Dollar and Dr. J. C. McCracken is to report later on this question.

The committee that has in hand arrangements for the observance of Thanksgiving Day was named a year ago. It is composed of the following: American Consul-General or acting Consul-General, Judge of the United States Court for China or his representative, Senior American Naval Officer in port, Commander American Company, S.V.C., Pastor or Chairman of the Community Church (when he is an American citizen), representatives of each of the following American Missionary societies: American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, American Church Mission, American Presbyterian Mission (north), Methodist Episcopal Mission (American), Chairman of the American Association of China, Chairman of the American Chamber of Commerce, Chairman of the American Woman's Club and Chairman of the American Far Eastern Bar Association.

Mr. Cunningham presided yesterday and those present at the meeting were Dr. J. C. McCracken, representing the Community Church, Maj. C. P. Holcomb, representing the Bar Association, Dr. J. W. Lowrie, representing the American Presbyterian Mission, Mrs. P. H. Dunbar, representing the American Woman's Club, Mr J. H. Dollar, representing the American Chamber of Commerce, Mr. H. B. Lane, representing The American Association of China and Miss Ann Singleton, of the Consular staff, who acted as secretary.

The choice of a speaker to deliver the Thanksgiving Day address was referred to a committee composed of Mr. Cunningham and Doctor McCracken. As in former years financing of arrangements for the observance will be done with funds contributed jointly by the American Association of China and The American Chamber of Commerce. A committee named to draft the program and act also as a finance committee is composed of Mrs. Dunbar, Mr. Lane and Mr. Dollar. Mrs. W. R. Chapman is to be asked to act as Chairman of a committee in charge of music for the observance and Miss Austin of the American School is to be asked to assist on this committee. It is understood that seating and general arrangements at the Thanksgiving Day service will be placed in the hands of members of the American Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps.

A Romantic Trek From The Land of The Midnight Sun Through The Heart Of Asia, The Fantastic Land of Mongolia, And Mysterious Thibet To Shanghai.

V—THE MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

By Larry Lehrbas

The Altai Mountains—"Mountains of Gold" as they are known in the Mongolian tongue—appear to have been thrown by some gigantic hand over the heart of Asia, radiating like fingers from the great Mongolian plateau. Their snow-capped peaks pierce the blue Mongolian sky in a thousand jagged places, hiding the tufts of snow in the brilliant sunshine by day and becoming pedestals for the twinkling stars by night.

The Altai region, as it is known by the few geographers who have mapped out the great mountain range, is rumpled over Western Siberia and Mongolia—a region much larger than the whole of Switzerland and excelling even the far-famed and muchly-advertised Alps in sheer, primal beauty. It was through the Mongolian chains of these picturesque mountains that Serge and his companions traveled in their trek from the land of the midnight sun to the romantic plains of the great-great grandsons and grand-daughters of Ghenghiz Khan and his barbarian hordes.

After the fifty-odd men in the expedition had been completely outfitted with the necessities of life for the vagabond trail and had been mounted on wiry, little Mongolian ponies—the same brave-hearted little wild broncos that are turned from griffins into race horses on the training tracks at Kiangwan and Shanghai—they trotted briskly out of Biisk on the first stage of the winding, tortuous trail through the rugged grandeur of the Altais.

A HORSE-POWER FERRY

Just out of Biisk the calvacade crossed the Katoon river a few versts before it joined with the Biya to form the River Ob, the great water artery of Asia's heart. Four men and horses were transported across the river a time, the horses stabled to balance the two ponies that provided the motive power for the ferry by whirling a large wheel, laid flat, and it, in turn, revolving two crude paddle-wheels on either side of the awkward craft. The ferry-master, whip in hand to spur the ponies in their efforts against the current of the stream, stood in the center of the wheel.

Jogging along in easy stages the calvacade left Biisk and its whisps of smoke behind and passed through the prosperous villages that dot the slopes of the Chuya Alps, the jagged range of the Altais that radiates from the twin-headed Mount Byelukha, the Mont Blanc of these Asian rivals of the tourist-favored Alps of Switzerland — through Katoonsk, Smolenskaia, Altaisk, Kama, Chergan, Shebailenor, Topu Chaiyar, Pestchaniyar to Ongudai, fourteen days away.

The country they passed through in their first trek through the 'Mountains of Gold' was once the breeding place of nomad tribes but since the early explorations of the Russians has been colonised, especially on the vast grazing grounds that were once a part of the Czar's personal domain, until the Russian population is far in excess of the native. Approximately 1,000,000 Russians, many of them, once political exiles or their descendants, others hardy pioneers who early realised the possibilities of the fertile and rich country, now call the Altai's "home." The natives are all called Kalmucks, although in reality they are nearly all Altaians and Telenghites from original Turkish stock, and still retaining the vestiges of the Turk language. The national dress of the women consists of dresses, tight waists, close-fitting caps embroidered profusely, and high heeled boots. The men wear baggy trousers, cloaks and skull-caps.

THE SHAMANISTS

The Russians, of course, are all members of the Russian Orthodox Church, but the erstwhile Kalmucks are Shamanists, a nondescript religion whose shamans, or priests, specialize in protecting the believers from evil-spirits chiefly through the instrumentality of a tungur, or drum. Regular services, consisting chiefly of senseless poundings of the resonant skin of the drum which either drive the evil-spirits away or call forth the

NEW AGREEMENT IS VIOLATED BY TURKISH FORCES

Four Thousand Men Cross Border—British Issue Warning

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Oct. 12.—In spite of the signature of the Mudania Agreement and Ismet Pasha's assurances with regard to suspension of movements of troops, 4,000 Turks crossed the new boundary, north of Daridja on the Ismid Peninsula, this morning and advanced some miles to Tapeeuren.

Sir Charles Harington immediately sent an aeroplane to drop a message, warning the commander against trespassing on the neutral zone.

The British commander on the Asiatic side sent an emissary with a white flag on a similar mission. The British Commander-in-Chief also telegraphed to Ismet Pasha and Mustapha Kemal, calling attention to the breach of the agreement.

While it is possible that the movement was carried out without higher orders, those familiar with Turkish diplomacy regard the breach of faith more seriously.

It is felt that the Turks may be endeavoring to obtain a stranglehold on Constantinople in order to be able to demand the evacuation of the foreign troops before the Near East conference.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The Chamber of Deputies reopened today, when there were many interpellations regarding the Government's policy.

Replying with reference to French troops at Chanak, M. Poincare declared that troops had been sent there without the authority or consent of the Government. As soon as he knew they were at Chanak he ordered their withdrawal. This was one of the initiatives on which he prided himself most.

He was of the opinion that it was one of those which most contributed to the preservation of peace.

The French and Italian Generals at Constantinople had acquiesced in Sir Charles Harington's request to send contingents to Chanak. He (M. Poincare) was only informed of this afterwards. He consulted Marshal Foch and the French General Staff, who unanimously declared that the position would be untenable if attacked.

He immediately warned the Allies, laying stress on the fact that should a single shot be fired a general war might result.

Athens, Oct. 12.—Martial law has been proclaimed throughout Greece.

(French Wireless)

Athens, Oct. 12.—The Greecian government has informed press representatives here that Greecian delegates will sign the Mudania Protocol on Oct. 14. The delay was occasioned owing to the necessity of the delegates obtaining additional instructions relating to Greecian evacuation of East Thrace. M. Zaimis has telegraphed accepting the post of premier, adding that he will arrive in ten days to take up his duties. Mr. Patzis, a firm supporter of Venizelos was unanimously re-elected mayor of Athens.

Paris, Oct. 12.—All newspapers here publish dispatches from their correspondents in Constantinople attesting to the splendid spirit of camaraderie and good will manifested by the delegates at the Mudania conference. General Harington summed up the situation in a short speech to Ismet Pasha saying:

"I want to tell your excellency how greatly my colleagues and myself appreciate your patience and conciliatory attitude manifested on all occasions, even under the most trying circumstances. Your remarkable forbearance resulted in the Peace so greatly desired by all the Powers concerned. Please accept our very best wishes for a just and conscientious Turkish administration over East Thrace."

TUCHUN LI, OF FUKIEN, FLEES AS SUN'S MEN TAKE FOOCHOW

Southern Forces In Complete Control Of City

FIERCE FIGHTING

Peking Showing Growing Signs Of Agitation

Tuchun Li Hao-chi of Fukien is now a refugee on a Japanese warship while the punitive army of General Hsu Chung-chi is heavily bombarding the North Gate of Foochow, according to a telegram received here last night from Amoy. Li's troops at Chuangchow are reported to be mutinying.

Both Shukow and Sihua were captured by the southern forces on Wednesday following serious fighting. Three columns are now attacking Foochow. Little Hsu's army is occupying Shuikow while Sihua was taken by the forces of Generals Wang Ta-wei and Li Fuling.

The naval unit of Admiral Sah Cheng-ping is anchored at the main bridge off Foochow. The Admiral had declared that he would not side with any faction, but will fire on any army which starts looting the provincial capital.

A Yenping telegram yesterday to the Dah Tong News Agency states that continuous victories are recorded by the invading army. Two strategic points named Wantienchiao and Chaikuoling have been taken. The forces of General Hsu Chung-chi have captured Pesha. All communications west of Foochow have been cut.

An Amoy telegram states that General Kao Chuan-chung, the Amoy commander, has received a telegram from Tuchun Li to state that he was coming to Amoy on a Japanese gunboat. The second division stationed at Changchow is reported to have joined the rebels.

PEKING WORRIED

The Peking Government however are making feverish preparations to suppress the rebels. A military conference will be held in Paotingfu tomorrow when Generals Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu and Feng Yu-hsiang are expected to attend.

A Presidential Mandate has been issued ordering an expedition against the rebels in Fukien. The expedition will be both by land and water, the land forces to be under the command of General Tsai Chen-hsun of Kiangsi and the naval unit under Admiral Sah Chen-ping.

The mandate enumerated the crimes of Little Hsu and Wang Yung-chien, for having caused the disturbance of Fukien which is described as detrimental to the welfare of the Republic and appointed Admiral Sah Civil Governor of Fukien.

The Minister of War, Chang Shao-tseng, and the Minister of Justice, Lo Wen-kan, are ordered to raise the sum of $3,000,000 for military expenses for the expedition. The military authorities of Hupeh, Kiangsi and Kiangsu have been instructed to send reinforcements to Fukien to assist Tuchun Li.

Three companies of landing forces of the navy arrived in Pukow on Wednesday and were immediately shipped to Mamoi, Fukien, for duty. More soldiers from the Chihli camp are coming to Pukow daily.

(Eastern News Agency)

Foochow, Oct. 12.—There was fierce street fighting here today with the consequence that General Hsu Chung-chi's troops have completely captured Foochow. Two Japanese were killed by stray bullets.

APPEAL TO WU

Hankow, Oct. 12.—In connection with Fukien and Anhuei situation, General Hsiao Yao-nan, Tuchun of Hupeh, has addressed a lengthy telegram to Marshal Tsao Kun and General Wu Pei-fu, pointing out reasons why Chihli troops should not be despatched as reinforcements.

The main reason is that General Hsiao is afraid of the Fengtien troops attacking Chihli.

Tuchun Hsiao has urged Marshal Tsa and General Wu to send Admiral Tu Hsieh-kuei at the head of his fleet, to Fukien to

Argument Is Concluded In Giesel Liquor Case; Judgment Next Friday

Counsel Make Final Statements In French Mixed Court; Dr. Fischer Asks Exoneration

Judgment in the Giesel case, in which Mr. A. Giesel is charged with the manufacture and sale of spurious Hennessy brandy and Noilly-Prat vermouth, will be delivered next Friday morning, it was announced by Assessor F. Crepin and Magistrate Nieh of the French Mixed Court at the conclusion of argument by counsel yesterday.

Yesterday's session of the case, which was attended by a large crowd, was opened by Mr. H. Le Gouellec, prosecutor, who traced in detail the evidence brought forward in the prosecution, placing special emphasis on the fact that cases of the Noilly-Prat vermouth and Hennessy brandy were found in the godowns owned and operated by the defendant.

"Mr. Giesel can tell the court that he knew nothing of 227 cases of vermouth stored in his godown," Mr. Le Gouellec declared, "which he has already done, but it hardly stands to reason that a man with 27 years business experience in Shanghai would not know every entry as well as every discharge from checking up his godown receipts.

"It is all very well for him to put off the whole blame on his former employee, A. C. Mack, who is now facing trial for theft in the British court, but whether or not Mack is to blame, he, the owner, is responsible for all actions of those under his orders.

SAYS HE DODGES BLAME

"When it is not possible or convenient to shift the blame on Mack, he places it on Battistuzzi, who was nothing more than a tool both of Mack and Giesel, who engaged him. If the employment of Battistuzzi was completely above-board why was it that his services were only required after five o'clock every afternoon when he reported to Mack to do the latter's bidding.

"When we consider the sale of the Marie-Noyon Vermouth, Armond La Croix absinthe and Chaponeau grenadine it is impossible to believe that Mr. Giesel did not wonder whether or not his reputation would suffer. I have carefully looked through the French Bottin (Trade directory) and I have been unable to discover where these houses conduct their business affairs. It is quite evident therefore that Mr. Giesel tried to substitute the Marie-Noyon vermouth for Noilly-Prat, a French house whose reputation is international. I am quite certain that judging from the labels a deliberate attempt was made to mislead the small Chinese merchants."

Mr. Le Gouellec then turned the attention of the court to the Blumenthal testimony regarding the discovery of bottling, corking and labelling machines on the first floor of the Giesel establishment, where Battistuzzi worked every evening after office hours under Mack's instructions. He said:

"It is impossible to separate these three, and unless each is tried separately we will never know the true state of affairs. Giesel passes the responsibility to Mack, who shifts it to his underling Battistuzzi, who unfortunately has no one else to shift it to and therefore states that he was acting under the orders of his employers."

TELLS OF SYSTEM

Mr. Le Gouellec then told of the methods in vogue regarding shipments of wine from France. He stated that the wine which was shipped in bulk from a reputable house was bottled here and that the labels were often printed here from plates sent out by France. By a reputable house he inferred one which was registered in the French Bottin. Regarding spirits and liquors the procedure was entirely different. The spirits were shipped with the corks, bottles and labels sufficient for an equal number of bottles and it was against French law to do otherwise. The reputation of the house always stood for a guarantee of pure quality. Inasmuch as it was impossible to find either the houses of Marie Noyon, Albert La Croix or Chaponeau it was quite evident that the liquors were spurious.

In conclusion the prosecutor

DROWNING OF MAN OF U. S. S. HURON FOUND ACCIDENT

Boatswain C. A. Deckman's Body Found Floating In Whangpoo

A body found floating in the Whangpoo yesterday morning was identified as that of C. A. Deckman, boatswain of the crew of the U. S. Huron, Flagship of the American Asiatic Fleet, which lately sailed southbound, and following an inquiry conducted yesterday by U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton sitting as Coroner, a verdict of accidental drowning was returned by a jury.

It was disclosed yesterday that Boatswain Deckman had been reported missing two days before the Huron sailed and the condition of the body when it was taken from the water indicated that the drowning had taken place at least four days ago. No testimony could be given yesterday concerning the exact manner in which Deckman was drowned and the theory is that he fell from the ship while boarding it. Identification was made possible only from the clothing and from a metal tag of the kind issued to men granted short leave.

Witnesses who testified at the hearing yesterday were Dr. Thomas Dunn and Doctor Smith, United States Naval Officer, who said the body bore evidence that the man had drowned, Inspector Thomas Nellows of the River Police, who testified that the finding of the body had been reported to the police hulk yesterday morning by Chinese sampanmen, and Lieut. C. R. Garrison, United States Navy Paymaster here, who testified concerning the method of identification.

Those who served on the jury were Messrs. A. C. Davis, Charles Stewart, G. Bourne, Dr. T. G. McMartin, W. Zauhi and E. C. Wagstaff.

BOOZE MUST STAY OUTSIDE 3 MILE LIMIT, SAYS HARDING

President's Decree Orders Sale Stopped On Seas

JUDGE HAND ACTS

Restraining Order Is Granted To Shipping Concern

(China Press Service)

Washington, Oct. 13.—President Harding today issued a decree forbidding the sale of alcoholic liquors on American ships now on the high seas, and also prohibiting foreign owned ships from carrying alcohol inside the three-mile limit.

New York, Oct. 13.—Federal Judge Hand today granted a temporary restraining order to the International Mercantile Marine, to prevent Prohibition Enforcement officials from seizing liquor stocks on vessels operated by that company. Upon the publication of the treasury department ruling, based upon Attorney General Daugherty's decision, enforcement officers here made plans to remove liquor stocks from every vessel that entered the port, whether American or foreign owned, on the the ground that the bringing of liquor within the three mile limit constituted an infraction of the law.

Immediately upon the announcement of this ruling some of the foreign shipping companies, notably the Cunard line, the big British firm, announced an intention to appeal to the United States Supreme Court. Prohibition officials, however, made plans for immediate seizure of the booze stocks on board incoming liners, and it was to circumvent these officers that the International Mercantile Marine Co. sought a restraining order.

The writ granted by Judge Hand will remain in force until next Tuesday, on which date there will be a hearing on the company's application for a permanent injunction pending a final decision of the case by the Supreme Court at Washington.

In the meantime the bureau of Internal Revenue, at Washington, has drawn up a set of tentative regulations for the enforcement of the prohibition ruling on American owned ships, and under these regulation those ships which are scheduled to sail on or prior to Oct. 14 will be allowed to take liquor stocks abroad.

Word has been received from Paris that the French companies are planning "liquor as usual" on French ships sailing for America, but that these liners will seal up their stocks upon entering the three mile limit. French lawyers are of the opinion that America cannot exercise any kind of jurisdiction over foreign ships even within the three mile limit, so this, in their belief, is a matter that is entirely within the province of international law.

LINCOLN ARRIVES AND SAILS TODAY AS "DRY" SHIP

Next Mail From U. S. Due Here On Tuesday On Jefferson From Seattle

In addition to American mails and general cargo that it brought to Shanghai the Pacific Mail steamer President Lincoln, which arrived yesterday from San Francisco, unloaded here its full stock of liquors and the vessel sails for Hongkong and Manila at 2 o'clock this afternoon as a 'dry' ship. It is the first of the American shipping board passenger liners on the Pacific to come under the recent ruling of the United States Attorney General bringing all American vessels within the scope of the American prohibition laws.

Mr. Frederick W. Stevens, American representative on the International Consortium, and Mrs. Stevens, were among the big list of passengers arriving on the President Lincoln. Mr. Stevens, who has been in the United States, is returning to Peking.

Other passengers disembarking here included Mr. W. Renwick Smith, formerly of the New York Tribune Syndicate and now advance agent for the Tim Frawley-Adele Blood players, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Curtis P. Smith; Mr. David M. Gubbay, the broker; Rev. Nathaniel G. Fedde and family; Mr. John S. Emens of W. S. Emens Company, Ltd., and Mrs. Emens; Mr. Charles E. Rayner of Rayner, Heusser and Company, and Mrs. Rayner and Mrs. Seitz, wife of Mr. Carl Seitz, and son, Clayton.

Mr. John A. Fowler, Special American Trade Commissioner, and Mrs. Fowler, were also incoming passengers on the Lincoln. Mr. Fowler is en route to the Dutch East Indies for a general survey of trade conditions and will then make his headquarters in Manila.

Following the President Lincoln the next mail from the United States is to arrive on Tuesday on the President Jefferson of the Admiral Line from Seattle, which also becomes 'dry' under the new ruling.

The next mail for America is to be dispatched from the American Post Office on the President Taft of the Pacific Mail, sailing on Tuesday. The President Grant of the Admiral Line sails for Seattle on Sunday October 22.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO HOLD FETE RAIN OR SHINE

The King's Daughters' Society's garden fete, for which elaborate preparations have been made, will be held at Mrs. Ayscough's this afternoon if the weather is fine. If, however, the Weather Man is unkind the fete will be held indoors at 20 Gordon Road, entrance on Penang Road, and will not be postponed.

The entertainment planned by the society includes many interesting features, warranted to please both children and grown-ups. The program is to start at 2:30 p.m. and it is planned to have a pastoral play, staged by the Dramatic Section of the B. W. A., as well as many other pleasing innovations. Tea will be served at 50 cents per head.

One Killed And One Injured In Shooting Affray

One Chinese was killed and another, formerly a Municipal fireman attached to Hongkew Station, was seriously injured Thursday night in a shooting affray following a quarrel. The injuries were caused by a third Chinese who drew a revolver and began shooting wildly. A woman, declared to be the latter man's sweetheart, escaped injury by rolling down a flight of stairs when the shooting began. The fireman, Wong Loh-sz, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. The shooting occurred in a village near Medhurst College.

MARKS DECLINE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—German marks opened at 10,500 today on a report that the German Government would take measures to check gambling in exchange. This brought out a few buyers and sellers held back. The opinion of the market was that the internal position of Germany did not justify the appreciation of the quotation, which finally relapsed to 12,300 to £1.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOYS PRODUCING 'JULIUS CAESAR'

The Public School Dramatic Club will produce at the end of this month Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar." This will be their third production, the others being "The Merchant of Venice" and "She Stoops to Conquer."

To attempt "Julius Caesar" is high aspiring, but the choice did not rest entirely with the Club, but rather with the Cambridge Local examiners, "Julius Caesar" being the selected subject in English Literature for the current year. That there are many difficulties in the production is inevitable, but the young actors leave all these to the harassed Stage Manager and the Lady of the Wardrobe. The chief trouble of the schoolboys is to assume the necessary dignity and decorum of Roman senators, or as in two cases, to impersonate ladies.

There will be two performances, held in the Hall of the Public School for Boys, on Monday and Tuesday, October 30 and 31. The first erformance will be a matinee for school children at 4 p.m., the tickets being 20 cents each. On Tuesday October 31, a night performance will be given for the general public at 9 p.m., admission being $2.00 and $1.00. The money taken, it is hoped, will defray the cost of production.

Histrionic art is now being recognised by educationalists as a valuable form of self-expression in the young. In the present instance, besides being a mode of self-expression, there is the additional benefit of inculcating a love for the work of the greatest of English dramatists.

assist General Li Hou-chi, and General Chi Hsieh-yuan, Tuchun of Kiangsu, be requested to take necessary measures.

Tuchun Hsiao, fearing that emissaries of the Anhuei Clique may enter the region of Hankow, has given orders to arrest its members. He has also given orders to the 4th Mixed Brigade to strengthen defences at the borders of Anhuei.

Foochow, Oct. 12.—General Li Hou-chi, Tuchun of Fukien, has taken refuge on board a Chinese man-of-war now at anchor in front of the Customs House here.

Owing to the fact that the progress of warfare has of late turned out unfavorable to the troops under the command of General Li Hou-chi, Tuchun of Fukien, and that General Hsu Chung-chi's troops have made a long advance, merchants here have closed their shops and thus the public mind is greatly agitated. The Consuls here for Japan, Great Britain, France, the United States, and the Netherlands yesterday held a consular conference at the Japanese Consulate-General, at which it was decided to ask the captains of men-of-war of the Powers for the protection of foreign residents in Foochow. The Japanese warship, Tone, has landed a naval brigade. General Hsu Chung-chi's troops have made a violent attack upon the district of Changle. The danger to Foochow is gradually approaching.

(Eastern News Agency)

Foochow, October 12.—The troops under General Hsu Chung-chi on the 11th made an advance to a point a few miles north of Foochow, where fierce fighting took place until daybreak. A few bullets fell in Foochow. At 10 a.m. today General Li Hou-chi's troops displayed a flag of truce and surrendered to General Hsu's troops, who entered Foochow by the Northern Gate, completely capturing the city. Public peace here is now being maintained by the troops under General Hsu Chung-chi.

Canton, Oct. 12.—Canton is busy despatching troops to Fukien to oppose the possible return to Kwangtung of General Hsu Chung-chih.

Peking, Oct. 12.—The Cabinet this morning discussed the situation in Fukien and, according to unofficial reports, agreed upon the appointment of Admiral Sah Chen-ping as Inspector-General of Fukien coast defences, with Admiral Tu Hsi-kuei as his assistant.

An agreement was also reached regarding military operations against General Hsu Chung-chih and General Hsu Shu-tseng (Little Hsu).

French Birth Rate Drops 10 Percent

Paris, Sept. 9.—The anxiety of the French public over the constantly decreasing birth rate was intensified by the publication of the latest statistics of the ten largest French cities, showing the birth rate had dropped off 10 percent in a single year.

In Paris alone for the first six months of this year there were 24,000 births, compared with 27,500 for the same period last year. A similar decrease was noted in Lyons, Bordeaux, Lille, Strassburg, Nantes, Toulouse and St. Etienne. Only Marseilles and Nice approach last year's figures.

At this rate the decrease in the population for the year in the entire country will reach the appalling total of 80,000. This has inspired the Matin to renew its insistence that the "public authorities and Parliament occupy themselves immediately with this national question, for there certainly is none more urgent."

Finds Husbands Need Much Looking After

London, Sept. 9.—A personal dispute between two women for the husband of one of them was revealed in Essex Court when Arthur Susans, charged with desertion, was ordered to support his wife.

"You have had him ten years, I have had him only six, but I can manage him better than you could if you had him for a hundred years," the other woman wrote to the wife who had written asking the woman to return her husband.

"You say he is old enough to manage himself and his affairs," she went on, "but you make a big mistake. A man is never old enough to do that. He wants looking after. The law can force a man to pay what Arthur is paying you, but it cannot force him to go where he doesn't want to."

good fairies, according to the needs of the occasion and the fee paid. The shamans, aside from their exercises on the village bands' drum, deal in magic, performing wierd rites savoring of the Hindu fakirs or the Chinese workers of magic.

The forests clothing the mountains are sparsely populated by descendants of the original Tartars, who congregate in small settlements scattered about in the woods, and especially in the Black Forest, and eke out an existence hunting, fishing and trapping wild animals for their pelts. The Russians have homes of logs—resembling the log-cabins known to Americans in the early days of Boone, Lincoln, and the pioneers who settled what was then the 'wild west' beyond Kentucky, but the natives live in Kalmuck tents, Asian cousins of the American Indian teepees or wickiups that still dot the Western United States and Canada, constructed of bark and poles.

After passing through the village of Katoonsk the calvacade jogged along through several smaller villages before stopping for the night in their own tents on the plateau, and then, the next morning, began ascending a mountain valley leading through the mountain chain proper. A wild, mountain torrent rushed down the canyon alongside of which the horsemen road single-file over a boulder-strewn and dangerous trail to Altaisk.

At Altaisk the calvacade stocked up on sakari, bread crusts cut into little cubes which they used for many miles into the desert country as 'filler' in the salty-tea that became a combination drink and soup, and little squares of cheese.

Two or three times between Altaisk and the next village they passed through the calvacade passed carts—called toredolka—carrying the crude exports of the Mongolian country to the Altai villages in exchange for produce and food. Carters work from Bisk into Kobdo, and from Kobdo into the Altais, sometimes taking weeks for the trip as the carts are heavy and cumbersome and the roads, dangerous even for horsemen especially during the rainy and winter seasons, are often stuck in the mud, slide off into the canyons, or held up by washouts in the road when a mountain stream overflows its banks and wipes out the roads that have been chopped into the mountain sides by brute force.

"THE PONY EXPRESS"

Chergan, the next stop of any importance, is a large and flourishing village, outside of which the calvacade stopped in the mail relay stations maintained by the Russians. Mails are sent both ways across the mountains and desert once a week and the Russians, to maintain a service that is almost identical with the olden time pony express mails in the 'wild and wooly West' keep relay stations, generally small, dirt/tents as a general rule, with changes of horses for the mail carriers. Travelling as a semi-official government party the calvacade was to make use of the mail relay stations several times before Kobdo, the outpost of Russian civilisation on the rim of the Mongolian Wilds.

RECEDING CIVILISATION

Just before reaching Ongudai, the half-way station on their trail from Bisk to Kobdo the calvacade left the last intruding vestiges of modern civilisation—the telegraph line—behind. For over ten days they had ridden along the poles that marked the line running back into Russia and just as the log-cabins that also marked Russian seepage into the Mongolian country were becoming fewer and fewer until finally a log-cabin was the exception rather than the rule, the last telegraph pole disappeared over the mountain horizon.

At Ongudai the calvacade found a church, a post office and telegraph office and a scattering collection of houses, the homes of agents for Bisk and Barnaul firms trading with Mongolia. The horsemen camped for the night, girding their loins for the ride over the pass in the Altais the next morning that was to put them on the Great Divide between Russian civilisation and Mongolian yurts—for just over the divide lived the modern descendants of the Khans of old. And just over the divide was red, bloody adventure.

The next story in the calvacade's adventures along 'the yak-tail trail', which appears in the SUNDAY CHINA PRESS, tells of the thrilling escape the three young cadets had from death, their last experience with the Bolsheviki, and the descent into Nomad Land.

The High Cost of Dying

THE high cost of living is bad enough. There is really only one thing worse and that is the high cost of dying. Have you ever considered seriously what it will mean to your dependents if you pass away without making adequate provision for their support?

PERHAPS you have not considered the possibility of leaving this earth just yet. But you will undoubtedly shuffle off sooner or later. Most people have, you know, and you will probably be no exception. One thing you can do, however, and that is make provision for those who are now dependent on you for support. Household and other bills will continue to come in, and the H. C. of L. will not ease up on them in any way.

THE high cost of your dying will not be borne by you personally, but it will be borne by your dependents. Do you feel you are doing the right thing by them if you go along without protection? The only sure protection is an adequate life insurance policy in a sound Company. Have you increased your insurance in proportion to the increased cost of living in recent years?

Mixed Court Refuses To Assume Jurisdiction In River Suicide Case

The extraordinary case in which Li Tien-sung, a ticket inspector on the Indo-China Company's steamer Luen Ho, is charged with inciting a passenger to suicide in the Yangtsze on October 3 was again before the Mixed Court yesterday, when Assessor Mead and Magistrate Tsang ordered a special preliminary hearing but refused to take final jurisdiction over the matter.

The ticket inspector is alleged to have caused a Chinese who boarded the ship at Kiukiang to be roughly handled when it was found he had no ticket or money and to have threatened to string him up to the rigging. When the man expressed a preference for death, the accused is declared to have advised him to commit suicide, whereupon the man is said to have leaped overboard, at a point near Siau Kai Sai, and never to have been seen again.

Mr. M. B. Brown appeared to prosecute the case on behalf of the Anhwei gentry's association here—the affair having taken place in that province—and Mr. J. E. Salmon and Mr. K. E. Newman appeared for the defendant.

Mr. Salmon inquired if the Court had received any word from the Anhwei authorities, who were communicated with after the last hearing of the case. The Assessor replied that a telegram had been sent and that a reply was received to the effect that a man was being sent here with a despatch warrant. Mr. Brown then asked that the defendant be held in custody, bail being cancelled, until the arrival of the warrant.

Mr. Salmon opposed this request and Mr. Newman declared that there was as yet no proof that the man had actually died. His body had not been recovered and it was quite possible that he had swum ashore.

The Court then stated that it could not and would not take jurisdiction in the case, though a preliminary hearing would be necessary before any action could be taken regarding the despatch warrant. The making out of a prima facie case is necessary before the man could be handed over.

The Assessor said that it could not be argued that the affair did not take place in Chinese waters. If it had been on the high seas the matter would be different.

Mr. Salmon said that the ship was British and that the incident occurred on the ship.

The Assessor inquired what would happen to a Chinese who committed an offense on a British ship in port, the Chinese not being on the ship's articles and there being no British interests claimed. No one had appeared, he pointed out, to show that there were British interests in the case and no application had been made tending to show that there were.

The Court ruled in conclusion that it would not take jurisdiction but that the case would be set down for a special hearing and that the accused is to be held on bail, as previously.

FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super-Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

Early Sales Having Affect On Cotton Prices In U. S.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 15.—While conservative sentiment in the cotton market still leans towards ultimately higher prices than any yet seen this season, it is generally conceded that before this happens the market must be called upon to absorb a greater amount of hedges than have yet appeared. The crop, because of unusually dry, hot weather in the Southwest, has opened early and rapidly, and farmers, whether from force of circumstances, or because they are satisfied with the price, which is a profitable one, are selling freely.

It is the understanding here that some of the large spot handlers, in order to have cotton on hand for any rise in prices that may come later in the season, have been very good buyers in Texas, hedging their purchases with sales in the future markets. The sales in the leading Southern spot markets have been averaging between 40,000 and 50,000 bales per day, which is an unusually large total for this time of year. The Texas Commissioner of Agriculture declares that all indications point to higher prices for cotton.

He thinks the Government estimate of 3,644,000 bales for Texas is a million bales too high, and says reports furnished his office from reliable men in all parts of the State indicate a crop of 2,462,000 bales. The average cost of producing this crop he estimates to be 22 cents per pound, and makes an appeal to farmers, merchants and bankers not to force all the cotton upon a declining market. There is no doubt but that the cotton co-operative marketing associations have become a factor to be reckoned with in any study of cotton prospects.

The American Cotton Growers Exchange, which is composed of nine state co-operative marketing Associations, with between 150,000 and 200,000 members, has, it claims, between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 bales of cotton signed up on legal contracts, and professes to be purely a farmer's business. A good many people in the trade think the organisation would do better to hedge the cotton it may hold, in the futures market as do the regular spot cotton firms.

It does not appear that mills have been buying aggressively this week. A good deal of the spot business represents purchases by firms, to be distributed later. American mills are buying a little but mostly only enough to cover a small part of their requirements. And yet the mill situation has greatly improved. The New England textile strike is practically over, and in the last few days there has been a decided increase of business in the cloth markets. The continued heavy domestic consumption from month to month, as reported by the Census Bureau, is a healthy sign.

The coal strikes have subsided, and the rail strike seems in a fair way of settlement. With peace restored in these fields many expect to see a great boom in business, but the more conservative prefer to await a more settled European situation. The German outlook is still bad, and while some houses with foreign connections expect that Germany will eventually take almost as much cotton as last year, it will only be bought as needed. Exports so far this season are small as compared with a year ago, but the accumulation of stocks at seaboard points the last two weeks give an impression that a larger foreign business is in prospect. An exporter with offices in several large cities says he has not sold a single bale of Texas cotton to Liverpool this season, and he knows of six other firms handling similar business which have sold almost nothing to spinners and importers in the United Kingdom. A fair business is reported with Spain and also with France and Italy.

A Memphis report says probably the largest percentage of the crop ever known at this date is open in the fields. Late in the week reports from the local dry goods market said large quantities of all kinds of goods were being bought up feverishly, some for delivery as far ahead as next February. It was estimated that as much as 500,000 pieces of all kinds, mostly print cloths, sheetings and sateens had been sold here within the last two days. The trade seemed to be more impressed with the statistical position of cotton than with the daily fluctuations in the speculative market.

A new method of fighting the boll weevil is proposed by a member of the Chemical Warfare Service. He proposes to exterminate the weevil by the use of toxic gases.

"The Powder Puffs"

The "Powder Puffs" gave a large audience at the Olympic Theater last night 'twixt two and three hours of real pleasure. There was quality as well as quantity about the show and Mr. Jimmy Young can feel very pleased with the reception that his clever little troupe had.

Lots of excellent songs interspersed with skits, humorous dialogue and dancing provided just the sort of program that Shanghai likes.

The dancing features were well in a class by themselves, and special mention must be made of the fine interpretation that Miss Suzanne Verney gave to 'The Swan' number. Her partner in other numbers, Mr. Edouard de Kurylo, is graceful and skips about the stage in movements that all have a pleasing meaning of their own.

Miss Nita Corri and Bert Hamill supply most of the funny bits of the show, and the laughter and applause that greeted their efforts last night is a sufficient guarantee of their ability. Miss Muriel White at the piano kept all the company well together and was also heard to advantage in her songs. Acceptable numbers were also rendered by Miss Magnese Fisher and Conrad Layton.

The show will be presented again tonight and can be recommended as a cure for any blues that might be going around in these trying times.

Friday, Thirteenth, Is An Unlucky Day, Accept It From Us

Yesterday, for the second time this year, it was Friday the Thirteenth. Bearing this in mind the author of these lines walked under four ladders on Nanking Road, stepped on a spider, raised an umbrella in the front hall, turned the horseshoe open side down over the smoking room door, fractured a mirror, walked through two funeral processions and went home to dinner and boasted about it.

When the aforeconfessed chronicler arrived back at this office last night a few minutes before midnight he found three shroffs awaiting him, one of them bearing a sheaf of chits supposedly given the eradicating process at the end of August.

There's something in this superstition game.

Baby Stealing Again Is Epidemic In Paris

Paris, Sept. 9.—Baby stealing seems to be coming back into vogue in Paris. The last epidemic several months ago having been stamped out with the sentencing of the thieves to several months of imprisonment, a fresh one has broken out, with the thieves still at large.

Two children playing in a city garden mysteriously disappeared, while another, whom a stranger invited to accompany him on a quest for candy, cannot be found. In most of the instances the children are about six years old and pretty. It is estimated that in Paris alone some 2,000 children vanish in this manner every year. The majority of abductions occur in holiday time. Sometimes the young victims are found abandoned in out of the way districts of the country, but it is supposed that they are usually forced to join traveling circuses and carnivals.

Pope Writes Letter Praising Gasparri

Rome, Sept. 9.—Revived reports of discord between the Pope and Cardinal Gasparri again have been silenced by a letter from the Pope to the Cardinal in which he expressed in the warmest terms his faith and admiration for his secretary of state.

The letter concerned the restitution to the people of Loreto of an image of the Virgin to replace the famous one destroyed by fire a year and a half ago. Benedict XV. was so moved by the loss of the century old image that he ordered an exact copy made, and Pius XI. completed the gift by placing a crown of pure gold upon the head of the figure and consecrating the image with his own hands.

In the letter to Cardinal Gasparri the Pope asked him to go to Loreto as his personal representative to make the presentation of the gift to the people.

FRAWLEY WILL OPEN SEASON HERE ON NOV. 16

On November 16 Shanghai theater-goers will have opportunity to extend their greetings and another welcome to T. Daniel Frawley, popular actor-manager who for many years has been bringing high class dramatic companies and high class productions to the Orient.

The date of the Frawley opening was announced yesterday by Mr. W. Renwick Smith, advance representative of Miss Adele Blood and Mr. Frawley, who arrived by the steamer President Lincoln from Japan.

The opening play, according to Mr. Smith will be Avery Hopwood's scintillating farce, "The Gold Diggers," the play which ran two seasons in New York. Miss Blood and her company are now playing a ten days engagement at Hilo, Hawaii after completing a three weeks stand in Honolulu. The Frawleyites will sail from Honolulu on the President Cleveland October 20 and expect to open in Yokohama on the thirtieth. From Yokohama they go to Tokio for a special two performance engagement, officially opening the new private theater at the Hotel Imperial. From Tokio the Blood-Frawley Company goes to Kobe for a 'one night stand.'

Mr. Smith says that Miss Blood and Mr. Frawley have an attractive reportoire for Shanghai. They spent the month of June in New York picking out the most successful Broadway plays of last season to bring to the Orient. T. Daniel Frawley is no stranger in Shanghai but Miss Blood will make her professional debut here this time.

The company numbers fifteen, all members of which have been in metropolitan productions. Among the plays to be presented here are "Enter Madame," a futuristic comedy, "Anna Christie," Eugene O'Neill's great drama, "The First Year," a comedy of American home life, "Kempy," another comedy (in those Mr. Frawley has an exceptional opportunity to do great character work), "The French Doll," a farce with a few songs, "Lawful Larceny," a society drama, "The Cat and the Canary," a mystery play and "Smilin' Thru," a fantastic comedy drama.

From Shanghai Miss Blood plans to take her artists to Manila, Hongkong and into India.

U. S. CAPITALISTS ASKED TO REJECT LOAN REQUESTS

America To Avoid European Reconstruction Schemes

(China Press Service)

London, Oct. 13.—Owing to the improbability of European debtors, with the single exception of Great Britain, repaying the American war loans in the near future the Washington government, it is reported here, has urged American capitalists not to grant any loans to any European governments, especially if there is a probability that such loans may be used for military purposes.

It is further announced that Washington has officially announced that any American participation in Europe's financial readjustment schemes must be predicated upon a definite understanding that the debts of the Entente nations to America shall not be discussed.

U. S. Is Sending Brig. Gen. Connor To Command Troops

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 13.—The Washington correspondent of the Morning Post states that the appointment of Brigadier-General Connor to succeed Colonel Martin as Commander of the United States troops at Tientsin indicates the importance the United States Government attaches to the political situation in China and the necessity for having a high-ranked experienced officer there, who will presumably rank as senior officer instead of the British commander.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

Third Arson Case Within Fortnight At Mixed Court

Another arson case, the third within a fortnight, was called in the Mixed Court yesterday when a shop assistant was charged with having set fire to premises at 139 Tientsin Road, a silk and lace shop, last Sunday.

Mr. R. C. Faithfull, who appeared to prosecute, stated that the ground floor of the shop appeared to have been saturated with kerosine. He asked that the Court inspect the premises. The place carried insurance of Tls. 3,000, he said.

The case was remanded for one week, the accused to remain in custody. An apprentice is also being held as a witness.

SENTENCE BURGLARS

Four Chinese convicted of participation in eleven burglaries and suspected of even more appeared for sentence in the Mixed Court yesterday. Two of the men were sent to jail for eighteen months each and were ordered to be expelled at the expiry of their sentences, while the other two were sentenced to two years each and—both being former deportees—will be reexpelled at the end of that time.

U. S. Riflemen To Meet 'The World' In Matches Nov. 25

The International team match, open to three men from each nation, including British Dominions, will take place on Sunday afternoon, November 25.

This match was instituted in 1911, in which year it was won by the English.

In 1912 an American team consisting of two Navy men, W. A. Lee and A. D. Denney, together with Lieut. Sauer of the American Co. won the match, Denney also taking the high gun prize. The ship on which Lee and Denney were serving had gone up river, and it was not expected that they would be able to compete. This same Denney was a member of the International Rifle Team which won such a signal victory at Milan, Italy, last summer. It is reported that W. A. Lee is at present in Shanghai.

In connection with this match there will also be fired the American Company vs. "The World," twelve Americans against one of each nationality in the S. R. A. This match has now been fired three times, resulting in one win for the American Company and two for "The World."

Recs Footballers Will Start Today

TIME & CHANGE

Time has had its effects on most things It has not, however seen any change in the quality of the "Three Castles" Cigarettes.

Away back in the early-days of the tobacco industry, the manufacturers of this famous cigarette were noted for the purity, flavour, and fragrance of their product. Those standards have been maintained, and to-day there is no better Virginia cigarette than "Three Castles."

Argument Is Concluded In Giesel Liquor Case

said "The fair name of the two French houses of Nolly-Prat and Hennessy have been victimised by spurious imitations.

"These houses, which have built up international reputations by many years of fair dealing, are subject to severe criticism through no fault of theirs by these vile substitutes.

"However they are not the only ones to suffer. The buying public have been victimised likewise, and particularly the small Chinese merchant who relies on the reputation of the local house through which he conducts his business since he is unable to seek redress from the manufacturer, who is many thousands of miles away. I therefore ask that your honor take into consideration all the facts, the countless numbers of persons who have suffered as a result of the defendant's actions and that the maximum penalty be accorded to him."

FISCHER SAYS NOT GUILTY

Dr. O. Fischer, counsel for the defendant, arose at 12:20 o'clock and began his argument in rebuttal. He stated that the only evidence produced by the prosecution had been of a circumstantial nature, and that there existed no single proof that his client had ever sought to defraud the buying public. He introduced lengthy evidence anent French criminal procedure to show that the employer was not responsible for malfeisance of his employees, particularly if he knew nothing about it.

Dr. Fischer then dwelt at length on the fact that A. C. Mack was at present under charges at the British court of having stolen 227 cases from the Giesel godowns, and contended that until a decision is reached in his case, Mr. Giesel should not be held accountable for the actions of a man facing criminal charges.

He stated further that the police did not find a single bottle of the Hennessy cognac in the godowns controlled by the defendant, and merely cancelled the printing contract let to the Mercantile Printing Company.

In conclusion he stated that the prosecutor deliberately prejudiced the court against the defendant by dwelling at length upon his German nationality. Mr. Le Gouellec jumped to his feet stating:

"I mentioned the fact that he was a German only in the course of evidence. The facts remain that he is a German and that he happens to be prosecuted by a French firm."

Assessor Crepin ruled out the objection.

Dr. Fischer continued: "Inasmuch as there has never been any direct or indirect proof presented anent either the defendant sanction or complicity with a man now facing criminal charges, I firmly believe that much more than a reasonable doubt has been shown to exist and therefore ask his complete exoneration."

Assessor Crepin stated that if either side wished to submit further arguments they could do so in writing during the next five days, and that he would hand down his decision next Friday morning at half past ten.

Carpenter Wong Is Instructed In Building Custom

When constabulary duty's to be done occasionally there is a refreshing variant to the humdrum of collaring vagrants of pickpockets, quelling riots and informing belated gentlemen "which waysh shome."

A case in point is that of Constable Parker, who was patrolling Boone Road the other day when he noticed a new wooden partition being erected in an alleyway off that thoroughfare. In accordance with the handbook of constabulary instructions, he made inquiry, asking Wong Yen-kyi, who seemed to be the carpenter in charge, if a Municipal permit had been obtained. Wong said that as far as he knew there hadn't. The P. C. then instructed the carpenter that he had better obtain one without delay, and strolled out again to the street. As he emerged from the alleyway Constable Parker felt something forced into his palm and, looking around, observed Wong smiling blandly. In his hand the constable found $4.

"What's this for?" he inquired.

"Thank you," was Wong's somewhat ambiguous response.

So the constable took the carpenter to the police station and yesterday Wong told the Mixed Court officials that the $4 was to pay for the building permit.

The Court was inclined to credit Wong's ignorance of the law and let him off with a severe cautioning and ordered the $4 confiscated.

Market Is Excited By Rubber Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—The publication of the Colonial Office Report came like a bombshell to the rubber market and the actual effort of the recommendations was more far-reaching than had been expected. The market opened excited and prices during the day fluctuated wildly, closing with buyers at 10d. per lb.

It is authoritatively stated that it has been decided to bring the proposals of the Colonial Office Rubber Committee into effect in Malaya by November 1. Legislation in that connection will be introduced in the local Legislature in a few days. It may not be possible to move so expeditiously in Ceylon but it is understood that the scheme, when enacted by the Ceylon Legislature, will operate as from November 1 in order to secure uniformity in both countries.

London, Oct. 13.—Returning to the Rubber Report the Times underlines the disadvantages and says that it is to be hoped that the scheme will be abandoned at the earliest moment.

The Westminster Gazette says that the balance of opinion in Mincing Lane and on the Stock Exchange was that the scheme's advantages were many and it was obvious that the functioning difficulties would be overcome.

TRADE FALLS OFF BETWEEN S'HAI AND PHILIPPINES

Local Exports To Hawaii Show Slight Increase

Exports from Shanghai to the Philippines during the first nine months of 1922 show a decrease from $860,049 to $763,878 in the corresponding period last year, according to an official tabulation of declared exports made by the United States Consulate-General yesterday. Exports from Shanghai to Hawaii show a slight increase. Hawaiian exports last year totalled $46,061 as against $47,514 this year. There were no declared exports to Porto Rico, the Virgin Island or American Samoa.

The decrease in exports to the Philippines is accounted for by a dropping off in the export of cotton piece goods, flour and ham. Exports of cotton piece goods dropped from $142,372 last year to $46,458, and flour exports dropped from $338,282 to $9,638. The drop in flour exports resulted from a shortage here as China has been importing from the United States and the Philippine imports of flour from the United States has increased considerably.

EGG TRADE GROWING

Evidence of a growing egg trade between China and the islands is shown by the big increase in egg exports $225,680 worth being exported this year as against $26,132 last year. Exports not on the returns last year which added to the total this year include: Apples, $3,962; cotton, $13,841; dried eggs, $1,139; mah jongg sets, $485; peanut oil, $32,834; lubricating oils, $14,743; kerosene, $6,000; onions, $4,347; vermicelli, $6,364; and watches, $4,160.

Other fluctuations noted on the returns include increases in the export of beans and bean cake, canned goods, cotton laces, garlic, leather goods, nakeens, pianos, and a general increase in the 'all other goods' classification of from $119,296 to $134,577.

Decreases are noted in pig iron, electric lamps and lard. The export of raw silk increased from $8,58 to $27,865.

HAWAIIN EXPORTS INCREASE

The largest item on exports to Hawaii was of carpets which increased from $2,524 last year to $10,158 this year. Export of canned goods, cotton laces, jadeware and silk manufactures all increased slightly, and films made their first appearance on the returns. Films manufactured by Chinese moving picture companies and intended for production before the Chinese community in Honolulu valued at $3,165 were exported. Decreases occurred in the export of pig iron and 'all other articles'.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 12.—In connection with the existing campaign concerning disbandment of troops a petition will shortly be presented to the President, the Cabinet and Parliament, demanding the appointment of a commission empowered to arrange and carry out the disbandment of superfluous troops.

TRIBUTE TO ALSTON

Sir Francis Aglen, presiding, delivered a long and eloquent speech, in which he paid tribute to Sir Beilby Alston's sterling qualities and the able manner in which he had maintained the best traditions of the British Empire.

October 13, 1922

Spot bar silver was down 5-16d and forward ¼d in London yesterday. As there was a holiday in New York no quotations have been received from there but the London-New York cross rate as cabled by London is 443.

Our official quotations here today were the same as those ruling last night.

Our market at the opening was on the firm side but eased off during the morning and steadied up in the afternoon. At the opening business in Sterling was done at 3s. 4⅞d. for November-December delivery and in Gold Dollars at 75⅝. There were good buyers at these rates and the market eased off until as low as 3s. 5⅛d. for Sterling and 75⅜ for November and 75½ December Gold Dollars was done. There were, however, good sellers at these rates and the market steadied up, closing with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 4¾d. for all deliveries to January, and of gold dollars at 75½, with buyers at about ⅛d. and ⅛ point respectively above these rates.

Some business in Yen was done in the morning at 64¼ but in the afternoon there were sellers at 63¾ for forward delivery.

Banks today were quoting 3-5½ for Sterling bills, 77 for Gold Dollar bills, and 1025 for Franc bills.

China banks sold silver in London yesterday and India bought, the market closing steady.

Singapore Rubber Auction

Singapore, September 27, 1922

A gradual improvement has taken place during the past week in the London market, 8⅛d. being reported this morning. The New York market has also shown a better tendency, and the spot price has advanced to 15 cents. The local market has shared in the general advance, and there was a fair amount of trading on the rising market.

688 tons were put up for sale at this week's auction, of which 494 tons were offered and 401 tons sold.

Bidding was lively with a firm market tone practically throughout the whole sale; at the close, however, a slightly easier feeling was prevailing.

Comparatively few buyers were operating with manufacturers in the foreground.

Only two lots of Awarded Singapore Standard Sheet changed hands, the price being 26¼ cents.

The majority of buyers were bidding 26 cents only, resulting in the withdrawal of large quantities, which were disposed of in the outside market at slightly better prices.

Sheet equal to Standard was easy of sale, and shows an advance of 1½ cents on the week.

Off Quality Sheets were shown a large amount of interest; the better grades, in particular, found ready buyers.

No sale of Standard 1st Latex took place.

Crepe equal to Standard was wanted, but a small quantity only changed hands, owing to buyers' idea of prices.

Off Color Latex and Mottled Crepes were in fairly good favor.

Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes met with a good demand at prices about 1 cent up.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—During the week the London price of Bar Silver has declined ⅛d. for both spot and forward, and it appears that both China and the Continent have been small sellers with Indian Bazaars as buyers. Latest reports quote the London market quiet and steady. During the week under review business has only been transacted on four days, owing to the Chinese holidays, and throughout this period a weak tendency has been noticeable, partly influenced by a fair demand for T.T. The official rate for T.T. on London has dropped ½d. to 3s. 5d., but at the close a ¼d. premium is obtainable, and T.T. on New York is being quoted at 75¾. Although export paper, in moderate amounts, continues to make its appearance, the market shows an inclination towards weaker rates.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 39,593,000, a decrease of Tls. 778,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $38,480,000, an increase of $540,000.

Estimated value Tls. 67,298,000 as against Tls. 38,522,000 held at this time last year.

Peking President Reviews Troops

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 10.—One of the chief features of today's celebrations of China's National Day was the highly successful military review held at Hsi Yuan this morning, when President Li Yuan-hung inspected some 6,000 troops of the Ninth and Thirteenth Divisions. Perfect weather favored the occasion, and the clear autumn sunshine lent an added brilliance to the vivid colors of military and diplomatic uniforms which filled the pavilion at the saluting base. The troops were at their best, and their smartness was warmly praised by several of the foreign military officers who were present.

The War Debts Again

MR. Bernard M. Baruch, who was Chairman of the United States War Industries Board during the War, has written a letter to Senator Borah on the question of German reparations and inter-allied war debts which has two useful qualities. It is analytic, and it is also comprehensive. There has been too much talk in Congress and out of it about the war debts in bulk and in the crude. There they are, exclaimed a redoubtable Senator, there they are, the eleven billions or so owed us by European countries, and the only thing to do is to send a battleship to each country to collect the debts. Mr. Baruch shows the need of a discrimination somewhat nicer than that.

We have to ask and answer many separate questions. If the debtor nations cannot pay all they owe us, can they pay a part? If they cannot pay this year or next, can they begin paying in ten years' time? Moreover, when it is stated that our loans were raised and expended for a "common cause," we need to look into the matter in detail and find out what sums were used for separate interests and for lasting local advantages, rather than purely for the good of all. Distinctions like these are suggested by Mr. Baruch, and they, with many others, will certainly have to be taken into careful consideration by the official Debt Refunding Commission.

It is of the utmost importance also, as Mr. Baruch remarks in passing, to see the problem as a whole and to treat it as such. The recent abortive negotiations between France and England have shown how impossible it is to disentangle the reparation due from Germany from the debts due to one ally from another. There cannot be separate abatements and cancellations of the war debts. If they are to be readjusted at all, it must be by some general scheme applying to them all. And the central feature of any such scheme must be the same as the central feature of the original demands made upon Germany in the Versailles Treaty. She must, that is to say, sooner or later make good the material damage that she wrought in the war. It is the countries devastated by the German armies which must have the first claim upon German reparations. Others may waive their claim for indemnity; the United States never advanced any; but unless the Germans are induced or compelled to undertake the full restoration of what they lawlessly destroyed in France and Belgium and Italy and elsewhere, the just penalty will not have been laid upon an international disturber of the peace, and the deterrents from a future war will not be left as strong as they ought to be.

What Court Should Pass On Literature?

Symposium On Censorship By Leading Writers

(New York World)

Recent activities of the Society for the Suppression of Vice of which John Sumner is Vice Regent have provoked the bitterest protest against ultra-legal censorship that has yet been voiced. This agent seized three books by well known authors and denounced them as pernicious to the morals of the rising generation. The fact that these works had been scrutinised and approved by certain eminent publicists and educators did not abate the rigor of Mr. Sumner's verdict. To the argument that the books in question were little worse than propaganda for virtue according to the modern method of stripping sin of its seduction and substituting knowledge for ignorance, he upheld the contention that any representation of vice, however admirable its motive, tends to corrupt and degrade the reader. With the authority vested in him as judge and executioner of contemporary morals, he acted according to his own sense of shame. However, it is permitted to those who believe virtue a plant of hardy growth and not a hot-house hybrid to make their pleas before a legal tribunal where alone the privilege resides to decide if the Sumner sensitiveness has exceeded its jurisdiction.

In this instance, the machinery of the law has been duly invoked and the country will soon learn if its morals have really been endangered. In the meantime, the leading authors of the United States, together with their instrumentality, the Authors' League, have aroused themselves to defend their own liberty of speech and conscience and if possible to earn deliverance from the embarrassments of any form of self-constituted censorship.

It is with something more than surprise I have read about the seizure of three volumes of Mr. Thomas Seltzer's publications by that most anomalous organisation which is so strenuously represented by Mr. John Sumner. Coming right on top of the punishment imposed on a Cincinnati publisher for selling Rabelais and Boccaccio, and the action against "Simon Called Peter" by a most appropriately named Boston organisation, I as a lover of literature rather than as an author am beginning to wonder where this wave of purity is going to end.

What happens here and now to any one of these books does not matter seriously, I suppose. But there is a principle involved..... on both sides of this controversy, and because of it we are concerned not with this or that volume, ancient or current, but with the aims and scope of every specimen of literature of any kind. It is not a question of "art for art's own sake," either, or of the artist's right to claim a position above and apart from that granted to ordinary mortals not capable of production in artistic form. The question that lies at the bottom of the controversy I have in mind is whether human life, in all its fields and aspects, shall be based on scientifically tested knowledge, or on mere guesses, sentimentalities and prejudices.

The plea of the Sumners and the Watch and Warders has a plausible sound and might hold good if they were dealing with the fertilisation of sweet peas. But they leave aside a factor which in this field must be held dominant.... the difficulty of obtaining facts whenever human life is concerned. We can leave the study of peas and sheep and race horses to specialists. When it comes to the study of human nature and human existence in all their bewildering variations, we have to rely on the poets rather than the scholars. In this field the novel and the play and the poem count for at least as much, if not more, than any scientific treatise. In fact the treatises are to a large extent impossible without the facts furnished by the literary forms classified by the self-appointed guardians of our morality as "light."

There can be no winning or spreading of truth without free discussion of its every aspect, and such discussion is equally impossible without a straight and clear naming of the matters involved. That this can be done without violation of what is generally called "good taste" has been proved abundantly.... just as abundantly as it has been proved that the Sumners and their supporters rarely interfere with what is said or done outside of that all-embracing standard.

It is for the sake of the future.. ..in order that it may be a little better than the past ....that protest against any reckless interference with the material we need for the building of that future.

EDWIN BJORKMAN.

Any committee which sets itself up to judge the morality of any branch of art is on the face of it an absurdity. Art should be, must be and is creative and original. In order to bloom with those two qualities it must be unhampered.

Booth Tarkington Asks

Was it Charles Sumner who always thought he was something of an Abolitionist?

A censor is all right, if you have a censor to censor the censor ad infinitum.

BOOTH TARKINGTON.

Any artist who works with the tapeworm of censorship gnawing at his vitals, knowing that some blue-law committee is to sit in judgment on his work, would be stultified from the outset.

And more important: The general idea obtained from the censor advocate is that people write "smutty" books in order to make money. As a matter of fact the type of book that Sumner attacks makes no money at all and hasn't for the last decade, if ever. This can be proved by looking over the accounts of any publisher. It may be regrettable, but it is true that there is no real financial return from pornography. The only way to make real money is to write a neutral book, a book that is definitely planned not to jar on any body's or any group's nerves. The young writer would indeed be well advised, if it's money he wants, to perpetrate the sweet sentimental the Pollyanna, in fact.

Bolsheyik Russia has tried complete censorship of art, which presumably gave Sumner his big idea. But the trouble is that Sumner has never been to Russia and doesn't know how the complete suppression is working out. Let Sumner be sent to Russia to look into the situation.

If a committee of really distinguished people, people whose names are things to conjure with in their individual lines, were formed with the idea of a dictator being placed over each form of human activity I would be delighted to subscribe to it. An ideal committee would be as follows:

William Jennings Bryan—on biology.
Billy Sunday—on morality.
Pussyfoot Johnson—on law.
Fatty Arbuckle—on the theater.
Ponzi—on business.
And finally, who is Mr. Sumner?

SINCLAIR LEWIS.

Personally, I am utterly opposed to censorships, no matter what their form. But this is America, not Utopia. In order to get rid of the Comstocks I propose that all American books be passed upon for publication by a national committee consisting of the following or a majority thereof:

The Supreme Exalted Ruler of the Elks.
The President General of the Rotary Clubs.
The Imperial Hell Cat of the Ku Klux Klan.
A Methodist Bishop, to the chosen by shooting dice.
The Hon. Cal Coolidge.
Prof. Dr. Brander Matthews.
Young John Bockefeller.
Charlie Schwab.
Otto H. Kahn.
The British Consul General in New York.
Rabbi Stephen S. Wise
The President of the Macon, Ga. Chamber of Commerce
The Hon. Wayne B. Wheeler.

H. L. MENCKEN.

Human life is a curious and richly fascinating growth. For some reason inscrutable to us the earth was not peopled with Rollos. Whenever, in history, persons of the suppressive Puritan sort have had too ruthlessly their own dark way, nature, human nature, has either crept around the obstacle or has exploded it with devastating effect. Human life is a rich mixture. Suppressed, it has always gone prurient.

If the gentleman has a consistent principle of action let me ask him seriously, straight out, what are his intentions regarding Fielding, the Elizabethan dramatists, Shakespeare (poems and all), Smollett —a hundred other great interpreters? And how, in heaven's name, can he look in the face that marvellously rich and confused mother lode of primitive folk lore, the Old Testament? If he is guided by any principle whatever, how can he permit us to read it? How about the daughters of Noah, Mr. Sumner? How about certain other passages in that most richly human of all books? Surely you are familiar with them! All of them!

Really, it is time we stripped this situation of its absurdities—a few of them at least. A Mr. Sumner tells 100,000,000 persons what they may not read! He tells 5,000 writers and 100 serious artists what they may write. And all about him, infinite in their color and diversity and confusions of motive, infinite in their sin and their divinity, full, tragic, comic —flow the mighty and resistless currents of life. Crime? Yes. Poverty, luck, disaster, beauty. Sex? Bless your heart, yes! Whether the Sumner will let it or no. But they must not read what they are living or must live. It might hurt them to know what they are going through. Is literature—literature in its profoundest artistic purpose— to interpret to struggling human creatures their courses and their destiny? Not unless a Sumner nods in approval or in slumber.

Let us get at this thing. The Vice Society, I am informed, lives under special legislation of its own devising. It appears to function in a spirit contrary to the spirit of the ripe old common law and contrary to any rule of reason. It has power to arrest men and seize property. Any one who may be so unfortunate as to fall into its displeasure finds his guilt assumed. He is, in a serious degree, helpless.

I propose in all seriousness that this matter be looked into. A Comstock and a Sumner stand outside the main current of life and law. Let what censorship there must be partake of the ripe patience of the older law and of general human experience.

What should be censored, if anything, is not so much bad morals as bad art. But God help the art of Rolloland!

If Sumner confined his activities to suppressing obvious vulgarities, doubtless we shouldn't mind. There is dirty work to be done, here and there, by somebody. But this man passes by too many tawdry vulgarities to pounce on work in which purpose and sober thought live. He seizes honest books. He is not competent to function as custodian of the genius of literature.

Oh, wind, if Sumner comes . . . !

SAMUEL MERWIN.

"What court should pass on literature?" Why, the general people to whom, generally, the book, the poem or play is submitted. Freedom of judgment entails freedom of presentation.

Instead of censoring, let us leave what art produces to its own power of life. If it is not viable it will presently need no censor to cut it short. If it is viable, then the attempt to away with it has a flavor of ugly destruction indeed.

"But are there not all sorts of things that should be skimmed over or dodged or not mentioned at all?" Perhaps. But this wholesale pouring out the baby with the bath!—

And if we have a tomahawk for one thing it is such a temptation to use it for another! Radical or explicit utterance upon things sexual is bad! By extension, so is radical or plain utterance upon matters political—matters economic— matters religious or social. The only good Indian is the dead Indian. Suppress the book!

There is a stuff that is not literature and was never meant to be literature. We have laws penalising the publication and dissemination of libellous, indecent and obscene written matter, mere nuisance and poison, as we have laws penalising theft or assault and battery. There is a machinery that surely should be adequate for the enforcement of these laws.

But that is one thing, and this is another.

Vigilantes and Boy Scouts and Boards of Censors, out to define the crime, discover the criminal and administer punishment, somehow do not appeal to me. I am not sure that they always know the crime when they see it. And somehow they are so likely to stumble into crime themselves.

MARY JOHNSTON.

As far as I can see, the only good that censorship in this country has ever done was to give "Jurgen" an immediate and appreciative public. Otherwise its chief mission is to make us ridiculous in the eyes of the rest of the world. We must appear to the older civilisations as a lusty infant whose nurses are afraid to remove his swaddling clothes lest he discover he is really grown and insist upon thinking for himself. The Americans do less individual thinking than any nation in history, and fanatics and muddle-headed thinkers with persistence and some force of personality have too soft a job with their sheep not to hang on to their self-imposed autocracy until leaders equally persistent and equally forceful succeed in reminding the American people that they are citizens of a Republic, not subjects of some effete civilisation, coax them to wake up, to think for themselves and then to see that laws are passed guaranteeing to them the rights promised in the Declaration of Independence and intimated in the Constitution. We have ample laws now to force people to behave themselves in public, but what we now want is a law to enable adults—unless certified defectives and morons—to do exactly what they choose in private. Otherwise the entire adult population of the United States had better be herded into pens and kept there if they are not fit to select their own reading matter they are not fit to be at large.

A man's brain has many more tastes than his body, for the one is an inheritance of innumerable civilisations, some of them at doubt greater than anything the world knows today, and the other is a mere standardised product of nature's laboratory common to all ages, races, colors and times—a most humiliating thought for the individualistically inclined. And it is the men and women with both the desire and the independence to gratify these variform and epicene tastes, the inheritors of the ages, who make up the intelligence of a nation. They are the cognoscenti, and their number by no means includes that parasitic breed which exists by depriving its betters of their natural sustenance. . . . When they can do it! What does the censor really accomplish? A higher price and an imperious demand. Not that that does any harm when it sends youth to the classics; it is worth while to get youth to read a classic like the Satyrica at any price. And how much naughtiness do the censors think youth learns in any classic? What a sensationally ingenuous Nation we are!

GERTRUDE ATHERTON.

We seem to be confronted by an organised effort to thwart, curb and stifle the writing and publishing of fiction in America that is not wholly acceptable to the Pollyanna school of thinkers. This is particularly unfortunate at a time when there are encouraging signs that American writers feel moved "To hold, as 't were, the mirror up to nature." I am strongly in sympathy with every sincere effort to preserve and promote good morals, but I have no patience with attempts to handcuff American writers.

A line must be drawn between novels that viciously make the evil appear the better way and those that frankly discuss typical human situations. We are not going to solve the problems that give so great concern to all serious-minded people merely by ignoring facts. The truth is never dangerous and attempts to hide it serve no good purpose. The very people who exclaim with horror at novels that present honest pictures of present conditions and tendencies are the ones who should read them not in a spirit of hostility but with a view to a broader understanding of the mind and heart of America

Nothing is more encouraging right now than the fact that so many intelligent, high-minded people want to help the world to a better way of living. But there must be light to work in. The stalking censor would bid us say all is well when so manifestly all is not well. The right of censorship should be exercised only by the informed, the open-minded, not by fanatics.

American writers, so far as I know them, are conscientious, earnest patriotic men and women who would be the last to injure public morals. But we can't just limit our reading to mere beribboned prettinesses; and certainly we are in a bad way when books may be forbidden at the behest of individuals who feel that morality is best promoted through ignorance and bigotry.

MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

Only One Court—The Public

I don't see why it should take hundreds of words to answer the question "What court should pass on literature?" There is only one court, and that is the court of final resort—the public.

The Book Of The Human Countenance

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest

The book of the human countenance does not yield all its meaning unless it is read from at least three different directions. The front face and the right and left profiles have each a separate revelation. Indeed, every angle conceals some secret of character that might be deciphered, given sufficient acuteness and practise on the part of the reader. The art of Lavater was greater and truer than that of Gall. Physiognomy carries it over phrenology —at least, in my opinion.

The bony skull is too unyielding to be moulded by the strivings of the brain, but not so the facial features. Besides, even if we admit that prenatal and subjective influences affect the forms of the head, the face also has fixed characters that are apparently no less determinative in relation to the abilities, tendencies and qualities of the individual.

However we may decry the alleged science of those who profess to discern both the mental powers and the normal tendencies of men and women through such inspection, guided by set rules, we are all instinctively disposed to try it ourselves. We judge strangers by their looks, and "looks" refers mainly to the face and head, though with much attention likewise to carriage and manner.

But, as before intimated, no face has yielded all that it can reveal, or seems to reveal, until it has been viewed from not less than three directions. And it often creates astonishment to see how apparently contradictory, or at least inconsistent, are the impressions conveyed by a profile with those gathered from a front view. Not long ago I sat charmed for four successive evenings sitting directly in front of a singer, a man who, in addition to an unusually fine and cultivated voice, possessed a fascination of facial expression that won the enthusiastic liking of the whole audience. Men no less than women spoke of the pleasure that they experienced in simply watching his face.

But at the close of the last night of his singing, he suddenly took the accompanist's place at the piano, and himself played while he sang. In doing so he brought his right profile toward the house, and the alteration in the impression made by his face was remarkable.

Many, I know, noticed and felt it strongly. I should certainly have taken him for a different person if I had seen him thus elsewhere. All the singular charm of the frontal view was entirely gone, and the countenance was that of a far older, sterner, less sympathetic and less amiable personage than the captivating young man (seeming much younger than his years) who had resistlessly won the house when he looked straight into its eyes.

Now, the interest of such a case lies in the multiple question: Which was the true revelation, or was there no revelation at all, or were both true, but each only in part?

No doubt the last suggestion is the correct one, viz., that the singer's whole character was not suggested by either view of his face; but each conveyed, or suggested, a message of its own. But what would have been the effect if he had afterward shown his left profile? It would have told, or seemed to tell something still different. If you doubt this examine the faces of your friends and study them, first from in front, then from the right side and finally from the left side. All experienced photographers are aware that every person has a "good side" and a "bad," or "poor," side to his face, from the photographic point of view. It is probable that no instance exists of the two sides exactly resembling one another.

There is a famous picture by Van Dyke of King Charles the First in the British National Gallery, which is the only example that I recall having seen of a portrait painted on a single canvas showing, side by side, the front face and both profiles. The effect is very striking and very satisfactory, too, for one feels more as if he had actually seen the subject of the picture than when only one view is given.

It might be a good thing for everybody to have triple portraits: then each person could more nearly see himself as others see him. It would be easy by the aid of mirrors to make a triple photograph of a person at a single sitting.

But there is yet another view that also seems to reveal character, and that is a view of the back of the head with the ears and neck. It may be all very illusory and misleading but even so, it is at least entertaining and a good exercise in character guessing to study a person from behind. The width and length of the neck, the set of the ears, the tip of the head, the characteristics of the hair, all are teasingly suggestive. "The proper study of mankind is man"—from every point of view.

The Week's Market Report

COTTON

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—During the early part of the week, the cotton market was rather firm, with prices advanced of about three quarters of a tael. At the close, however, the undertone was steady. The demand for actual cotton has been very active on the part of spinners and dealers.

With reference to the future outlook, however, we are of the opinion that the market will be governed by the attitude of spinners.

Yarn.—The market during the past week has been quite firm, and prices advanced of Tls. 1.00 to Tls. 2.00 for 16's and Tls. 2.0c to Tls. 3.00 for 20's. Some 6,000 to 7,000 bales for all counts were contracted for shipment to interior marts, whilst over 10,000 bales direct business with the Mills have been recorded.

SPUNTS REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company state as follows in their report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—Another short week has just come to a close, during the latter part of which a fair volume of business was transacted at more favorable rates than was current in the early part of the week when the situation appeared to be stimulated by a more or less excited activity in the yarn trade but which improvement subsided as quickly as it had appreciated. Prices on the local staple at the close remain in a steady position with an upward tendency in that imported from Hupeh and Shensi cotton districts. Hardly any business has transpired in either Mid-Americans or Indians owing to the strength prevailing in those markets, coupled with the unfavorable rates of exchange for imports tions here. The receipts from the interior marts show an increase to that realised in the previous period and prove to be of fair average quality, but very small quantities are passing in from the Shanghai cotton districts and whatever quantities do arrive thence are very disappointing as to quality and color. Tone of the Market. Steady.

PIECE GOODS

We find dealers decidedly more optimistic and they report an improved Trade enquiry from both Yangtsze and Northern Markets; sales of Fancies are reported at covering prices and holders of White Shirtings have also been tempted to reduce stocks, but prices realised show no improvement and mean facing sharp losses in some instances —particularly in Better qualities.

Greys are in demand from Tientsin and we learn that Szechuen has taken some 300 cases White Shirtings.

Clearances are quite good. The impression seems to be gaining ground that no move will be made by Chang Tso-lin before next Spring and in the meantime confidence is returning and goods are moving more readily into consumption. We find no inclination on the part of dealers to operate forward at today's replacing costs.

Home Market: Cotton has remained fairly steady during the past week and quotations for cloth are erratic, but in the main show no easing. In some instances counter offers for stocks have met with acceptance at 5-7½ percent reduction; also many makers are open to business at slight concessions and apparently orders on their books are now running low.

Auctions were resumed this week and there was a decidedly healthier tone throughout the sales—bidding being brisk to meet actual Trade demand. Shantung and the Northern Markets generally being most in evidence as buyers; there is still no great inclination to buy speculatively.

Kungping offered on Tuesday 345 packages. Prices generally were on the average better; except for F. B. Venetians, where the decline was not due to Market, but to the Brokers' Annual "Charity Campaign"—the goods being resold by them at a Private Auction at roughly 5 percent higher and the difference represents their contribution to Charity! Fancies were keenly competed for and in some instances increased quantities are requested next week.

Ewo met with better results at steady prices.

Yuenfong repeated their last auction quantities and prices throughout were advanced—pure finish White Shirtings being from four to six mace higher.

CHINA PRODUCE

There has been additional demand for rice, and some 10,000 bags were again sold, principally to merchants from Chekiang.

There is very little doing in other sections. Some business is reported in sessamum seeds, new crop for export to Europe at Tls. 6.75 per picul for the green variety. The quotation in London is 22s. 3d. per cwt. October shipment c. i. f. London, for the new crop.

There are London buyers as well of Chinese gallnuts at 62s. 6d. c. i. f. London.

Shipments are still going forth from Hankow of Chinese wood oil but in lesser quantities. The demand for wood oil from London continues.

Prices for egg products are steady, hen albumen being quoted at 3s. buyers per lb., dried egg yolk at 7½d. per lb. and dried egg at 8½d. per lb.

The quotation for tallow on the London Produce Exchange this week are as follows:

White Chinese vegtable tallow. 38s. c. i. f. London, October shipment.

Green Chinese vegetable tallow. 38s. for October shipment.

HAIRNET

Messrs. Yannoulatos Bros. (China) have received the following report from their Chefoo head office on the hairnet market.

The demand for Hairnets particularly Doublemesh nets is increasing and the market has been very active during the past week. Prices are steadily advancing and owing to the scarcity of stocks higher prices are anticipated.

Market firm.

PONGEE SILK

The China Merchants Pongee Association have received the following report from their Chefoo head office on the pongee silk market.

The enquiry continues to be good with America also in the market.

A few hundred pieces of Shantungs (Ref. No. 9) and also Ninghais (Ref. No. 5) of an inferior grade were purchased for shipment to America, during the week.

Market firm. The tussah silk market has been very strong and prices have further advances, according to advices from Shanghai, to Sh. Tls. 780. Speculations and a good demand from Japan and the United States are given as the causes.

Market very strong.

JUTE FABRICS

Mr. J. A. Fredericks issued the following report on the jute fabrics.

Heavy C's bluestripe 2¼ lbs. have been done at Tls. 180 and 181 per 1,000 and 2½ lbs. greenstripe have been done at Tls. 205, 206 and 208. Hessians are wanted at Tls. 120 but holders are asking more.

HANKOW MARKET

The British Chamber of Commerce at Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, October 4:

Bar Silver dropped from 35⅝ ready and 35¼ forward to 35⅛ ready and 35¼ forward, rose again to 35 7/16 ready and 35⅛ forward at which rate it closed.

The New York-London cross rate dropped steadily from 441¼ to 437½ on October 2 and rose again on the 3rd and 4th, closing at 440¼. The Official T.T. rate for Sterling rose from 3s. 6⅛d. to 3s. 6⅝d. on October 2 with sellers up to 3s. 7d. with a slightly higher rate forward. T.T. Gold Dollars was quoted at 79. 4 months bills could be placed during the week down to 3s. 7⅝d. and Gold Dollar bills down to 80⅝. A slight improvement in Exports was noted during the week. Chinese market rates: Shanghai Taels 97.625. Local currency Dollars 70.4. Native interest: 10 percent.

Exports.—Enquiries for seed continue at steadily decreasing prices, but dealers at present do not seem disposed to fall in line with home values, and business is thereby rendered very difficult. Owing to the political situation in the Near East, business with the Continent is distinctly slack. Business with America is also on a small scale. Local tael prices are if anything, somewhat firmer than last week.

Imports.—Piece Goods: No change in market conditions to report. The Autumn Festival settlement passed off satisfactorily, and so far as can be ascertained there were no failures.

Yarn:—Nothing of interest to report.

In The U. S. Court For China

Judgment for $10,164 was given Heng Fu-chang against the China and Mongolia Export Company, Inc. by Judge Charles S. Lobingier in the United States Court at Tientsin on Monday in an action in which the Chinese claimed damages because of the failure of the export company to deliver a specified number of sheep skin coats.

The plaintiff sought to recover on an account stated and agreed, amounting to $10,164. The defendants admitted this account but denied that the said sum or any part thereof was now due and payable, for that the plaintiff was guarantor of Siao Tzs Chang and other in respect of a contract with the defendant for the supply of sheep fur coats, as confirmed by a memorandum signed by the plaintiff on the 4th day of June, 1920. By the failure of the contractor to supply the number and quality of fur coats called for by their contract, the defendant claimed to have suffered serious losses.

The evidence offered by defendant consisted of the original of the above named memorandum and of another document signed by defendant through its secretary and containing the following clause.—

"I the undersigned, compradore to the China and Mongolia Export Co. Inc., being responsible for the fulfilling of this present contract, have in witness hereof hereunto put my hand and seal. Tientsin, the 29th September, 1919. (Sgd) Siao Tze Cheng."

Plaintiff's name did not appear on or in connection with said instrument. In testifying, however; plaintiff admitted that the last named instrument was the one referred to in defendant's agreement as follows:

Mr. Chang Hang Fu hereby ratifies and confirms his guarantee appended to the contract in English and Chinese of the 28th day of September 1919 between the China and Mongolia Export Co. Inc., and Siao Tze Cheng for the delivery of sheep pelt coats, whereby Mr. Chang Heng Hu guarantees the due fulfillment by the said Siao Tze Chang of the said contract."

In order to enforce a contract of guaranty, said the judge, there must be evidence of default in performing the principal obligation, and notice of such default must ordinarily be given to the guarantor. The record before contains no evidence as to either of these points. It was stated by counsel in argument that the contract here guaranteed was connected with one involved in another case (Dakoutchaeff v. China & Mongolia Export Co., Inc.,) against the same defendant on which judgment has been rendered at the present session. But the contracts are not the same, though the one here guaranteed may be auxiliary to that involved in the case just cited. The judgment in that case, however, was rendered for the breach not of the auxiliary contract but of the principal one. And if we may presume that the contract in this case is auxiliary to the one in the case above cited we are still without proof that the principal in said auxiliary contract is in default, and without such proof and without notice thereof to the guarantor no liability can be enforced against him.

Again, the contract of guaranty like any other must be founded upon a sufficient consideration. The answer does not allege any consideration for this guaranty and the reply puts the consideration in issue by denying that 'the plaintiff is or ever has been guarantor," etc.

There is no evidence of consideration other than the recital in the alleged instrument of guaranty that it was given.

In consideration of the present payment by the China and Mongolia Export Co., Inc., to Mr. Chang Heng Fu of Dollars, Five Thousand ($5,000) on account of the aforesaid indebtedness," etc.

But the aforesaid indebtedness is recited in the same instrument to be "on account stated between the parties" and the payment of $5,000.00 therefore, which is a party of said indebtedness, is merely the payment of what defendant was legally obliged to pay. But such a payment affords no consideration which will support a contract.

For these reasons concludes the judge, we are unable to allow the counterclaim based on this alleged guaranty. Indeed, had it been found valid there would be no evidence from which to ascertain the measure of damages for its breach.

Plaintiff is therefore entitled to judgment for the full amount of his claim, and it is accordingly considered and adjudged that he have and recover from defendant the sum of Mex, $10,164 with interest thereon from June 4, 1920, the date when the debt was acknowledged, together with his costs.

Mr. R. T. Evans appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Mounsey for the defendants.

PRESS PRAISES AND CONDEMNS RUBBER REPORT

Times Says Action Is Too Late, Westminster Gazette Says New Era Dawns

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—The rubber report does not find much favor with the Times, which expresses the opinion that the scheme has been produced rather late in the day in view of the completely changed aspect of the market.

It believes that free play of supply and demand is the most natural and efficient method of establishing equilibrium in the rubber as in any other industry.

The present scheme, however, is much better than the earlier crude plans and probably has as good a chance as any such project could have of achieving its object.

The Financial Times thinks that the idea of stabilising rubber round about 1s. 3d. a pound would certainly be beneficial to the industry.

The advantage of the scheme will mainly accrue to Java and Sumatra companies if the Ceylon planters are likely to have their objections overruled and if the Dutch Government does not follow the British example.

It remarks that the export tax may be found easier to impose than to remove.

The Westminster Gazette says that a new era has opened for rubber companies.

Germany Takes Drastic Steps To Stabilise Mark

Regulations Issued For Dealing In Foreign Currencies

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The Cabinet today unanimously decided to issue ordinances to limit speculation in foreign currencies in order to prevent a further fall in the mark.

The Lokal Anzeiger states that these measures include prohibition of tendering or acceptance of foreign currency for purposes of speculation or hoarding and the issue of treasury bonds to the value of Marks Gold 400,000,000 with interest at 4 percent, having as security the receipts from export taxes and the increase in the receipts from the coal tax.

The decree of the President against speculation in foreign exchanges, which is intended to prevent further depreciation of the mark, has been issued.

It forbids the fixing of home prices in foreign currency or on the basis thereof.

Purchases of foreign currency will be subject to the assent of special control departments except in the case of firms and persons certified as requiring foreign currency for business purposes.

Banks must be satisfied with regard to the identity of sellers of foreign currency before purchasing.

The control departments must examine transactions to see if the purchase will be used for purposes of economic necessity, not including speculation or the employment of foreign currency as an investment.

Offenders are liable to a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment and a fine of ten times the amount involved.

(China Press Service)

Berlin, Oct. 13.—President Ebert issued the decree against speculation in foreign exchanges in order to stabilise the exchange market.

Provisions of the decree prohibit the issuing of bills in foreign standards except where materials are concerned. Bills issued in violation of the decree will be declared null and void.

The Government will issue treasury bonds based on the gold standard to stimulate saving. Bills definitely regulating all points covered in the decree will be submitted to the Reischstag as soon as they can be drafted.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 12.—with the Near East controversies settled for the moment the subject of reparations has been revived in the Paris newspapers, which declare that the next session of the Reparations Commission will devote its attention to the serious situation resulting from the depreciation of the mark.

M. Barthou, in an interview, repudiated the suggestion of the German press that his appointment meant coercive measures. He declared that he would study the question impartially, while upholding the Treaty of Versailles.

The newspapers state that the Commission yesterday considered a scheme, submitted by Sir John Bradbury, designed to prevent Germany's financial collapse.
